Pentest-as-a-Service[©]

Once-a-year security testing doesn't cut it anymore. For greater certainty against cyber threats, SureCloud[®] Pentest-as-a-Service[®] advances reactive project-based security testing into an always-on subscription service.

The Challenge

Vulnerabilities exist in every IT system, and for business-critical applications, the impact of an attack could be catastrophic, even business-ending. Often, these incidents are the result of a vulnerability that could be identified in a penetration test.

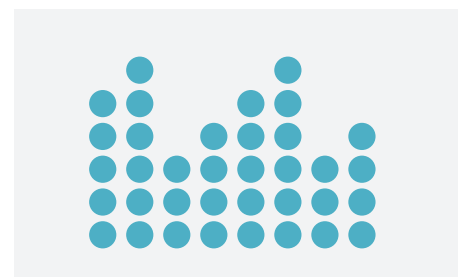

However, treating your penetration testing as a standalone exercise can't protect your organization. The resulting static report only provides a snapshot of any vulnerabilities in your systems at a specific moment in time. It doesn't show the full, ongoing picture, and it's impossible for you to derive any value from it to feed back into your organization.

Some providers offer continuous penetration testing in an effort to identify vulnerabilities on an ongoing basis. However, making sense of all the data and managing remediation from the numerous static reports can quickly turn into a nightmare, involving significant time, resource and manual effort to manage.

The Solution

Imagine if you had access to a platform with visibility and oversight of all testing projects, including historic ones. Now picture you have the ability to manage remediation, allocate tasks, and trend and track progress via dashboards. And what if you had full access to a market-leading cybersecurity team – what does penetration testing mean for your organization now?

As a leading penetration testing company, SureCloud's Penetration Testing Service is a modern offering that goes beyond basic penetration testing. It revolutionizes the whole approach to test delivery and remediation management by challenging the traditional model of reactive project-based security testing, and turning it into an always-on penetration testing subscription service, so you can be confident that your organization is always protected.

Taking a Modern Approach to Penetration Testing

- Through continuous penetration testing, SureCloud's Pentest-as-a-Service® challenges the traditional model of reactive project-based security testing into an always-on subscription service. Unlike other penetration testers, SureCloud provides you with:
- Support: manage your vulnerabilities, findings and remediation actions post-project delivery.
- Visibility: view all the vulnerabilities across your organization from a single dashboard.
- Knowledge: incorporate your historical data to build trend analysis and benchmarking.
- Reporting: access the information that matters with a single click – no manual effort required.
- Expertise: access to SureCloud's cyber security experts any time for best-practice advice.
