GDPR Discovery

Don't know where to start with the new EU General Data Protection Regulation? Begin your journey towards compliance with our GDPR discovery.

The Challenge

The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) requires that organizations securely and lawfully store and process personal data of European residents, but where do you start when your compliance program is immature? Data and process gathering, and mapping is a foundational piece of your GDPR compliance program and a great starting place for understanding what your organization is doing with personal data.

The Solution

SureCloud's GDPR Discovery data inventory solution allows you to kick-start your data gathering exercise through a simple set of questions, which can either be disseminated to functional heads via a questionnaire or completed in a workshop environment. The questions are designed to capture key data inventory elements, such as business processes, information assets, and systems. Based on the information entered, administrators benefit from risk-indicators, which can help focus follow-up deeper dive investigations. When the time is right, and as GDPR your program matures, the output from SureCloud's GDPR Discovery data inventory solution can be automatically pushed into SureCloud's Information Asset Management solution where greater levels of analysis, tracking and context can be recorded.

“SureCloud’s solution has brought a comprehensive clarity to our data processing that was impossible to achieve with manual spreadsheets. The system is so intuitive; it has helped us streamline multiple processes and undertake impact assessments that we couldn’t handle before.”
